

CALL TO ARTISTS: Request for Proposals
East Capitol Urban Farm Mural
Project Budget: $20,000.00
Deadline for Submissions EXTENDED: August 10, 2015

The DC Commission on the Arts and Humanities (DCCA) in partnership with the University of the District of Columbia (UDC), the Urban Waters Federal Partnership (UWFP) and the DC Housing Authority (DCHA) is seeking proposals from artists or artist teams residing in Ward 7 of Washington, DC, for an eco-inspired mural to be created on the site of a new urban farm coming to the Capitol View neighborhood in fall 2015. The selected artist will receive $20,000.00, which includes design, materials and installation. The selected artist will also be required to work with young apprentices (ages 14 – 23) as well as involve the community in the completion of the mural.

PROJECT BACKGROUND:

As part of the Urban Waters Federal Partnership (UWFP)—a national effort spearheaded by the Environmental Protection Agency, Department of Agriculture, and Department of the Interior to restore urban waters and revitalize the communities that surround them—a team of federal, city and local nonprofit representatives began meeting to identify ways to address environmental and public health issues in the Anacostia watershed, Washington, DC. Anacostia has suffered from polluted stormwater runoff and PCB contamination. Survey research indicated that most anglers were unaware of fishing advisories and as many as 17,000 people were eating fish from the river—many due to hunger.

Partners began exploring how best to address this problem and connected with the University of the District of Columbia Center for Sustainable Development to explore the idea of an urban farm and aquaponics facility. A three-year lease agreement was signed in February 2015 by the District of Columbia Housing Authority (DCHA) granting UDC the use of a site across the street from the Capitol Heights Metro Station. The three-acre site will be turned into an urban farming and aquaponics facility to achieve the following goals:

- Promote urban agriculture;
- Improve food access and nutrition through community-centered farmers markets;
- Provide job skills and entrepreneurship training in farming and stormwater management best practice construction and maintenance;
- Unite stormwater management best practices with urban farming;
- Implement a nature playscape for neighborhood youth to play outdoors;
- Create opportunities for environmentally focused public art.

In February 2015, the project was selected by the District of Columbia Building Industry Association's (DCBIA) Community Improvement Day, which will leverage a membership of contractors, architects, engineers and other industry professionals to provide complete site design and build out with extensive community involvement.

PROJECT DETAILS:

The DC Commission on the Arts and Humanities (DCCA) was invited to make meaningful contributions to the East Capitol Urban Farm through public art. Artists residing in Ward 7 are invited to submit proposals for a temporary mural (farm land lease is three years) for existing walls located within the farm site (see page 6 for images and dimensions of walls). The scope of the project includes design, implementation, working with young apprentices and community involvement. Applicants should keep in mind the following guidelines:

- Proposal designs should be environmentally themed (see page 7 for examples).
- The scope of the project includes multiple walls, which should be addressed cohesively. The central wall (page 6 – wall 2) should be the focus of the artwork. The mural or design elements can extend onto the two smaller walls on either side.
- Selected artist will be required to work with young apprentices (ages 14-23) by introducing and refining each student's artistic skills. DCCAH will work with local schools and community groups to assist with selecting the young apprentices. Young apprentices will receive compensation for their time, but payments will not be the responsibility of the selected artist.
- DCBIA team members and volunteers will be assisting with preparing the walls for the paint application in advance. The selected artist will not be responsible for wall preparation labor or supplies.
- The selected artist will be required to incorporate community involvement in the creation of the mural on DCBIA's Community Improvement Day on September 26, 2015.

ELIGIBILITY:

This opportunity is open to professional artists over the age of 18 residing in Ward 7 of Washington, DC. Should the applicant consist of a team of artists, all team members must reside in Ward 7.

BUDGET:

The total project budget will be $20,000.00, which includes artist fees and costs associated with design, fabrication, transportation to the site, insurance, permits, installation, materials, protective coating, and time working with young people and the community (stipend to young apprentices will not be the responsibility of the artist).

TIMELINE:

July 2, 2015	Announcement of RFP
August 10, 2015, 5:00 pm EST	Deadline for receipt of application materials
Week of August 10, 2015	Review proposals and select award recipient

SELECTION PROCESS:

DCCAH will convene a Selection Committee representing diverse interests and expertise to review proposals and qualifications of the applicants that respond to this call. The committee will use the following criteria in selecting an award recipient for the project. Candidates should address these criteria in their letter of interest:

- Artistic excellence and innovation as evidenced by past work.
- Appropriateness of proposed work for an urban farm site.
- Experience working with the community in some capacity.
- Demonstrated knowledge of the unique consideration of exterior murals.
- Ability to create unique and engaging artwork appropriate in concept, materials and scale.
- Availability to complete the work within the given timeline.
